FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MEDIASTORM JOINS DOCUSEEK2

Chicago, IL - Docuseek2 today announced that MediaStorm, the award-winning film production and interactive design studio, has joined the Docuseek2 streaming platform. The MediaStorm collection of 39 films is immediately available for higher-education streaming, exclusively on Docuseek2, expanding the Docuseek2 collection of the highest-quality documentary films.

MediaStorm's work gives voice and meaning to the most pressing topics of our time. Their character-driven stories demystify complex problems, humanize statistics, and inspire audiences to take action on issues that matter.

MediaStorm is greatly respected for their in-depth reporting, and work with world-renowned photographers and photojournalists to create compelling stories. They have been widely recognized for their work, having received several Emmy Awards and two Alfred DuPont Awards among many accolades.

MediaStorm releases include the following award-winning productions.

A DARKNESS VISIBLE

Based on 14 trips to Afghanistan between 1994 and 2010, photojournalist Seamus Murphy chronicles the history and story of a people caught time and again in political turmoil, struggling to find their way while their desire for self-determination is often overlooked.

INTENDED CONSEQUENCES

In Rwanda, in 1994, Hutu militia committed a bloody genocide, murdering one million Tutsis, and repeatedly raping thousands of women. Many of these women became pregnant, and have had to try for years to reconcile their contradictory feelings of both love and hate towards the children they bore as the result of their brutal rapes. These are some of their touching stories.

Docuseek2 is the premier streaming source for independent, environmental and social-issue documentaries, with more than 800 films from Bullfrog Films®, Icarus Films (including The Fanlight Collection and dGenerate Films), Kartemquin Films, KimStim, the National Film Board of Canada, Terra Nova Films, Scorpion TV, and now MediaStorm.

Brian Storm, Executive Producer and Founder of MediaStorm, said, "This is the first time that MediaStorm launches its catalog into the educational marketplace, and we couldn't be more thrilled than to do so through Docuseek2, where we will be joining an amazing collection of quality documentaries, and be able to reach a wide and receptive audience."

Jim Davis, President of Docuseek, LLC, said, "We are excited to include MediaStorm's remarkable films on Docuseek2. They are a great complement to our exclusive collection of essential documentaries for higher education."
